Dear Patrick,

I was absolutely surprised when Linda Tellingstone Jones handed me December issue of 'Omni' and commented with her charming smile: "It is about you".

I received your article during last stage of preparation to Global New Year's Eve party with, utilizing our first home made <sup>large</sup> electronic screen. <sup>my next steps attempts of</sup> Only small piece of the planned Event was actually accomplished, but probably even this small Soviet-American Venture, Reinforced by Screen, happened to be enough to Stimulate my American friends-participants to write a letter to General Secretary Mr. Gorbachev. (I trust that if the Whole Event is Really Global, then even small part of this Hollogram contains the whole Vision).

My friends found your article the most accurate description of internal problems in our movement. Let me quote you: "Esalon has learned to feel comfortable with its growing acceptance by the Soviet status quo... and... the party will probably want Esalon to forget about the Joseph Goldins and other unconventional types". Right. But life is full of hidden reserves. Conventional types of party bosses
